ON DUTY

BOSTON (FHTNC)—Midshipman Third Class Charles G. Blaize, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Blaize of East 59th St., Tulsa, Okla., is participating in a Midshipman's summer cruise of five to seven weeks aboard the guided missile frigate USS Luce, operating out of Boston, Mass.

The Luce is a unit of the Atlantic Fleet.

All Naval Academy and Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps (NROTC) Midshipmen participated in summer cruises aboard ships as part of the military training administered to the future officers. The Midshipmen learn first-hand how a ship operates and what it is like to live aboard one for an extended period of time.

The invocation will be given by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Hannan pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Michael Haas will serve as master of ceremonies and Charles Carter Jr., Area I vice president, will install the new slate of officers, Carol Walding, Jaycette Area vice president will conduct the Jaycette installation and present past area V. P. award.

Average steelworker wages in America increased from 91 cents per hour in 1940 to approximately $3.90 in 1961. This is an increase of 341 per cent in the cost of an hour's work in the steel industry in this 22-year period.

The 22nd annual Boys Conservation School, sponsored by the Mississippi Forestry Association, will be held this year July 30-August 3, at Roosevelt State Park near Morton, it was announced by Wayne Burge of Louisville, chairman of the Boys' Conservation school.

Boys from 64 hill counties will converge on the group camp at the state park to receive instruction in wildlife, forestry and soils along with ample helpings of recreational and other activities.

Boys are being selected from the 8th, 9th and 10th grades and will receive instruction from professional and trained personnel from state and federal agencies and private industries.

"There has always been a great deal of interest shown by everyone concerned in the Boys' Conservation School since its beginning in 1941," Burge said, "and this year is no exception. We are expecting one of the biggest and best schools in every phase of activity in the history of the Boys' Conservation School."

The story reads, in part, as follows:

The remains of the late Rev. M. J. Costello, P. P. Waveland, Mississippi, formerly of Eagle Lodge, Kells, and Mullagh, whose deeply regretted death was reported in last week's issue, were flown to Ireland and left Dublin Airport on Tuesday morning for Mullagh Church. The funeral took place after 11 a.m. Mass in that church on Wednesday to the adjoining cemetery.

Father Costello, who was an outstanding athlete in his youth, specializing in sprint events, is survived by his sister-in-law, Mrs. M. Costello, Eagle Lodge, Kells, and nieces, Mrs. P. Cumiskey, Eagle Lodge, and Mrs. L. Gaynor, Mullagh.

He was brother of the late Messrs. James and Patrick Costello, Drumbaragh, and the late Mrs. M. Sheridan, Cornakill, Mullagh.

Father Costello did magnificent things in the diocese of Natchez.

Some of the things he accomplished were: Built Church at Clermont Harbor; enlarged and remodelled St. Clare's church in Waveland to double its capacity and installed a heating and cooling system; built and furnished a parish house in Waveland at a cost of $21,500 dollars; reclaimed church house in Waveland at a cost of 2,500 dollars; built a parish hall at a cost of $26,000.

These are major material accomplishments, not to mention the numerous smaller ones of father.

But naturally, his spiritual deeds far surpass these, for through the years the tireless efforts of our good shepherd rendering untold services to his flock, have been above and beyond the call of duty.

The letter also told of the fact that Mr. Clarkin's nephew, Emmett Carolan, of County Cavan, Ireland, was ordained from "All Hallows" College and will be assigned to San Antonio, Texas, leaving County Cavan in a few weeks.

HOME GARDENING

Some July jobs to make your home garden pay off better include: shading at least part of the tomatoes. This will help maintain some production.

Start sprouting Irish potatoes at least three weeks before planting time. Set tomato plants or suckers for fall crop. Keep all non-producing rows felled and clean to help save moisture.

Watch closely for bug damage. Cultivate shallow. Harvest maturing crops regularly and completely.

Get ready for August—the big fall gardening month.

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK

The 19th annual National Farm Safety Week has been designated as July 22-28. This year's theme is "Family Safety at Work and Play".

National farm safety week is a good time for all of us to do what we can to reduce the great toll of lives, suffering and expense caused by needless accidents.

In rural areas more than 11,000 people die each year in farm, home and highway accidents. Nearly a million more are injured.

Farm work accidents rank first in total occupational deaths and third on a per worker basis.

Remember that more than 90 percent of all accidents involve some human failure.

Let's make this year's farm safety week a start in a year-round accident prevention campaign. Let's all work at it.

LIMING PASTURES

Remember clover and other legumes will not grow well on lime deficient land, and you cannot have top pastures without lime and a legume.

Lime will not injure grass and legumes growing when it is applied. Neither will it harm livestock grazing the pasture.

For best corn silage harvest in the hard dough or early glaze period. Then most of the leaves are still green and the kernels tender.

At this stage the corn will contain around 68 to 70 percent moisture and the ears around 45 to 50 percent moisture.

Corn silage harvested too early tends to be low in nutrients and dry. Corn harvested after the hard dough stage will contain around 75 percent moisture.

Remember winter corn is worth much less for silage than silage made from well matured corn.

Remember to plant the right kind of corn for silage. Don't plant take the place of following for early growth.

If you fail to lime your pasture during July and August, chances are you won't get the job done until next year. Most hill land will respond well to a ton of lime to the acre.

Area that will go into Coastal because this winter and next spring should be selected now.

Do not select an area with common Bermuda growing on it. Coastal cannot get well established in competition with common.

Common will not creep into an area established Coastal, but Coastal cannot take over from already established common.

Pasture weed is important. Every permanent pasture that was not clipped during June should be clipped in July. But when clipping, do not clip off the good grass and legumes, raise the blade above them and clip off the weeds.

From 1959 through 1961 imports of foreign steel amounted to about 10.8 million net tons as compared to 6.6 million net tons of American steel exported. It has been estimated that about 40,000 more jobs could be available to American steelworkers if import-export trends of former years could be re-established, with exports predominating.

Our report on fishing each week sounds like a broken record.

It's true however fresh water fishing is at its best. Good catches are being made daily and the fish are running real large, some two and three pounders are being reported.

Salt water fishing is improving. Several catches of specks were made at 3 Oaks, Heron Bay, Bayou Brewer (all different spots). And some were caught with cast nets on the Hi-way bridge Saturday night along with flounders and other kinds of fish.

Drum and sheepshead are being caught at Little Lake.

An indication that the water must be getting brackish, (on the salty side). Green trout will come down in search of the shrimp coming in from outside waters.

Things fishermen must put up with, high tide, high winds, thunderstorms, and most of all, skiers who don't give a hoot for those fishing and those in smaller boats, both women and children who lives are at stake.

Why do they have to come up our Bayous and rivers when they have all the water in the Bay, Back Bay St. Louis, etc.

Skiing is a wonderful sport for those who like it, but let's have a little respect for others who like other water sports.

Another steak dinner was held at Pass Christian Isles Golf course last Saturday night. The hosts did a good job and the supper was a real treat. Better attend the next and bring a friend—enjoy a pleasant evening among friends.

There were 35 members of the class present.

Companies supplying goods and services to steel companies range from large firms down to the local drug, hardware and grocery stores. Nine out of 10 steel suppliers have fewer than 500 employees.

Rather interesting to see the young people taking up fly fishing. Among these are Nedie Lamm, David Carter, Eddie Riddle, Curtis Mathews and John Phillips. These young people are learning fast and are giving the old boys a tough time.

Keep up the good work boys and get others to learn. Fly fishing is a swell, clean sport. Ask those who know.

Understand Joe Glover will spend a two week vacation with his family at the old home here. Know Joe will catch up on his fishing. Couldn't have picked a better time, Joe.

Gilly Gilmore was telling us he caught some specks last week. Good news, Gilly.

Donald A. Cuevas, Sam Noto, Horatio Favre and Frank Trapani had an enjoyable trip leaving last Tuesday for Las Vegas and returning Sunday night. Their main purpose was to attend the Ralph Dupas-Griffin fight Friday night. Disappointed at the outcome of the fight (of course) they had a wonderful trip according to the four.

Enjoyed too much to put in this Column said Frank, he even appeared on T.V.

Here on vacation are J. Fauchoux and J. Voelkel of New Orleans. Both are ardent fishermen and never miss a chance to get in all they can while here. Good luck fellows.

Transworld Wildlife Farms are now open on Highway 90.

They have snakes, turtles, alligators, Birds and monkeys, etc. Joe Tesha is manager and Ruth Caldwell acts as guide.

Guided tours are held daily.

Our local Game Warden is picking up those with expired fishing licenses. Licenses expired June 30. The new license is $325 which includes hunting and fishing, except deer and turkey, $2.00 extra. The licenses are for the whole state.

This answers several questions asked about the new licenses.

Your licenses can be purchased from the local game warden Nolan Ladner in the first block on Union Street. Better get yours before going fishing with artificial baits.

Another lady to join the ranks of fly fishing is Mrs. Nolan Ladner, wife of the local game warden. She caught 16 perch on her first try with the fly rod. Better have that license, Ethel!

Still can't say much about soft crabbing. They also seem to be a thing of the past. Exceptionally low tide in the afternoons could be the reason for no crabs.

Sea gulls are mighty good crabs and get their share of crabs during daylight.

BLUEGILLS

This mighty mite of the sport fish family are one of the most popular of all species of pan fish. Taken on a light cane pole or fly rod, the bluegills, especially the bigger "bulls" are found most anywhere hereabouts.

Small surface baits are best for bluegills as well as worms, crickets and even cut up fresh shrimp. A small cane pole with light cork will also get these delicious eating fish.

One of the easiest ways to a kid's heart is through a fishing pole.

There is hardly a fisherman reading this who cannot recall his first fishing trip, and countless pleasures down through the years.

A lowly cane pole rigged up by my mother when I was a mere child was suddenly transformed into a magic wand the instant I was found at one end with a lively fish at the other.

There are thousands of kids who may never know the thrills of fishing. Give them a little of your time and take them with you. Good dividends will be accomplished in the future growth of our youth. Fishing is a clean and enjoyable sport for all ages.

Dee Coffey, 4 years old, is really starting early. Each day, according to his mother, he has been picking up about 20 soft crabs in the afternoon and Monday caught a Rat Red. The soft crabs are more than we can catch at night.

Dee must be taking behind his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Breath, Jr., who have caught a lot of fish. Mrs. Coffey has a Nursing School on Breath's Lane.

It's really a day camp and her charges enjoy plenty of outdoor life.

WHY?

As the land acquisition program by the Corps of Engineers continues throughout the fee and Buffer Zones of the rocket test facility in Hancock and Pearl River Counties, we ask:

1. WHY does the Corps of Engineers apparently consider the people completely ignorant as to the value of their properties? We were told, in a conference with authorities, that if a property owner compares the offer made him for his property with the price received by a neighbor, that his comparison is not valid, that he has no basis for his comparison, since he is not a legally qualified land appraiser.

2. WHY do they offer one owner with 80 acres of land, two good homes, artesian well and other improvements $16,500.00 and then pay $17,250.00 for 40 acres of comparable land with a house of lesser quality and practically no improvements?

3. WHY do they pay one owner with a modest house and one acre of land $11,000.00 and offer his neighbor with a much more valuable house and 12 acres of land, $10,300.00?

4. WHY do they refuse to tell the people what the appraisal on their property is? The negotiators make an OFFER and will not tell the owner if this offer is above, below or equal to the appraised value.

5. WHY do they use "horse trading" methods of negotiation? Those owners who have had the courage to argue with the negotiators have, in almost every instance, received payments considerably above the first offer made them. We have provable instances in which they have increased the first offer by $2,000.00 or $3,000.00 and in one case the offer has been increased $9,000.00 over the first offer. In other words these people would have been cheated out of this much money by the Government had they accepted their first offer. On the other hand, some owners have, with little or no argument, quietly accepted their first offer, we ask, is this the democratic way for our Federal Government to do business with the people? Is this FAIR and EQUAL treatment to all?

6. WHY do they wait up to within 30 days or less of the "dead line" for moving before the first offer is made to some of the owners in the fee area? Many people have not had the ready cash with which to buy another home. All of the financial institutions of the area have been forced into a very reluctant position in making loans to the people simply because it was realized in the early stage of the negotiations by the Government that no one could make even a wild guess as to what he would be paid for his property.

7. WHY were we told at the meeting in Logtown in October that no one would be hurt, that the Government has plenty of money for this project and that we would all be well paid for our property?

The Government is now considering buying the land in the Buffer Zone in fee simple, but no decision on this has been announced. The only possible value of land in this area with the forced imposition by the government of the easement, would lie in those tracts presently with a good growth of young or salable timber. A much more remote possibility of value would depend on mineral resources, the development of which is most unlikely. It is practically universally agreed by men of sound business judgement in this area, that open land or pasture land in the buffer zone will be of no value and will prove to be a complete tax liability to the owners.

We feel that the only democratic approach to the land problem in the buffer zone would be to give the land owner option of selling outright to the government or accepting the easement if he considers that his property will be of sufficient value under such an agreement.

We are completely agreed that some of the owners in the fee zone have received fair compensation for their property, but it is our opinion that no one has been paid too much.

Time is running out for the people in the fee area. It is going to be a long way through the Buffer zone. All that we are asking of our own government is JUSTICE and EQUAL TREATMENT for all.

SOCIAL CONSERVATION NEWS

One of the largest land rehabilitation projects in the nation - involving a total cost of approximately $140 million dollars at the halfway mark in the Yazoo Little Tallahatchie Watershed of North Mississippi.

These SCD commissioners were local men serving without pay selected by their neighbors. Theirs was the responsibility for determining conservation measures to be undertaken in their districts.

In 1946, working with technical assistance from the Soil Conservation Service and the U.S. Forest Service, these 16 soil conservation districts began intensive erosion and flood-control land treatment through the Yazoo-Little Tallahatchie Flood Prevention Project.

Working through the districts, farmers applied first aid to more than 17,000 farms. As of July 1963, they had planted 100,000 acres to pasture grass. They had constructed 1,500 miles of diversion ditches to protect fertile bottomlands. They had improved more than 200,000 acres of stream channels. They had completed 110 floodwater retaining structures—one-fifth of the total needed in this area.

In 1965 organized fire protection by the Mississippi Forestry Commission spurred even more farmers to plant their land to trees which had proved one of the most valuable tools for checking erosion.

County Boards of Supervisors and the Mississippi Highway Department aided with sloping and treating raw roadbanks that had formerly oozed a high percentage of damaging sediment.

THE STORY OF TEN LITTLE FREE WORKERS

THESE ARE THE WORKERS
REDDY DOCTOR RAILROADER MINER STEELWORKER FARMER LAWYER GROCER SALESCLERK REPORTER

Ten little free workers in this country line and fair.
But if you cherish your freedom—worker have a care!
Ten little free workers—Reddy was doing fine
Until the socialists got him—then there were nine.

Nine little free workers laughed at Reddy's fate
Along came federal medicine—then there were eight.

Eight little free workers thought this country heaven
But the government took over the railroads, then there were seven.

Seven little free workers—till the miners got in a fix.
Uncle said coal's essential and took over leaving six.

Six little free workers till the day did arrive
The steel mills, too, were federalized—then there were five.

Five little free workers—but the farmers are free no more
The farms have been collectivized—that leaves only four.

Four little free workers till the government did decree
All must have free legal advice—then there were three.

Three little free workers—the number is getting few,
But with government groceries selling food—then there were two.

Two little free workers—our story's almost done,
With clerks at work in federal stores—that leaves only one.

One little free worker—the reporter son-of-a-gun
Mustn't criticize government—so now there are none.

Now we wonder, but they are so few
There won't be much work around, and a hard time will be.

And all could have been prevented if they'd just been left alone
And work together instead of saying "I never can support myself."

You... this could happen to you. This little story could come true unless each of us works to prevent it from happening.

MISSISSIPPI POWER COMPANY

involved one-fifth of all Mississippi land, other agencies played a valuable part. Among these were the U. S. Corps of Engineers, which had established the dams at Lake, Sardis, Arkabutla and Grenada; the Farmers Home Administration, the Mississippi Extension Service, the State Board of Water Commissioners and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The economic impact of this program is being felt in many areas. In 1940, there were few improved herds in the watershed.

Today some of the finest livestock in Mississippi is raised here. Nearly half a million of valuable bottomland have been reclaimed for farming, and higher crop yields reflect the use of modern techniques.

Industries like the Tennessee River Pulp and Paper Company in eastern Tennessee, and the Weyerhaeuser Timber Products Company near Columbus, Mississippi are using the products of this once desolate land in Lafayette County alone, timber has created an annual winter payroll of some $30,000, and in the region the potential annual yield of this new timber empire is estimated at $8 million dollars.

Land values have risen throughout north Mississippi as farms are improved, urbanites seek summer homes near the big lakes, and businessmen buy land for tree and cattle operation.

From Yazoo City to the Tennessee line this section grows green and proud—a living testimony to man's will to survive.

Total employment in the American iron and steel industry rose by more than 77,000 from January 1961 to January 1962. There were 554,654 salaried and wage employees in the industry at the beginning of this year.

Local units were winners of several first place awards including one for its community service reports, "Poppy," poem written by Donnie Ramell; Miss Junior scrap and Miss Poppy scrapbook.

They placed second for a poster by poster by Michael Delnitke and third for the scrap book compiled by Mrs. Gordon Romanoff.

A certificate was also presented from the Veterans Administration for volunteer service.

Steel companies are among the nation's most important customers for goods and services provided by others. They spend more than $8 billion a year on materials, supplies, freight and other services for current operations.
